Blinzard Arrives on Time and Take Postession of the Town Without Delayters 12 Degrees Above Zero as a Starter

The weather flend with his "Is it cold igh for you?" will have an excellent field to work in to-day, and unless he freezes to death, will have a similar field to-morrow.

The blizzard that left its home away out on he edge of Western civilization has reached this city and has come to stay, for a few days at least. It came right along, too, not stopping at any way stations.

Last night the late pedestrians met it, and lo-day all New York has had the pleasure of its acquaintance. The temperature in about six hours fell from 28 to 12 degrees, and this morning, the tiny mercury streams in all well regulated thermometers danced between the latter figure and two or three degrees

Those who were obliged to face the wind and cold to-day were not prepared for it either. Some few had bearskin caps and coat collars that did the duty of nose and car-warmers, but the big majority had only the plain every-day inch-and-a-half affair that fashion has dictated for the neck trimmings of the coat, and a 10 by 6 round felt hat that allowed the wind to enter sideways and then would not let it out.

The change in the weather made a big change in the commercial appearance of the one merchants downtown. The old gray-haired hawker, who for the past two ks has been forcing funny sounds from rubber canary birds at his doorway office near Fulton street has gone out of that business and has invested in ear-laps.

His doorway office is closed and his quarters are moved to the big thermometer at Park row and Broadway. He did a bigger business in a few hours early this morning than he has done for a week in alleged canary sales.

done for a week in alleged canary sales.

The old man who tried to teach the bachelors and aspiring young men how to thread a needle in a single try, is now negotisting for the sale of his stock with the idea of investing in scarfa and wristers. Even the candy peddlers, those of them who ventured out, have started ear-warner annexes, and seem bound to suit all tastes.

With the sourrying pedestrian there appeared but little desire to stop at shop windows. A bee-line to the office was the shortest way this morning, and the old adage of the longest way round seemed forgotten.

Two out of every three who passed Hudmit's thermometer, however, found time to stop and look anxiously at the red stream that told how cold the weather was. Their faces were red and icicles in many cases hung tenderly to their beards.

For an instant they would stop, give a single glance at the long, narrow box, count the figures and, with a shiver and a hitch at the coat collar, would pass on. Some went so far as to retrace their steps to see if really there was any need of feeling so cold, but a glance settled them and they were contented.

Mr. Blizzard will probably have done New York to-morrow, and, like other visitors who come here as strangers, paint the town and disturb the serenity of the old residents, will creep out quietly and won't be heard from again until he recuperates.

New York is not quite alone in the midst of the cold wave. Out West, where the Blizzard come from, it is colder. At Fort Garry, Manitoba, the temperature is 40 degrees below. At St. Vincent, Minn., it is just as cold. At St. Paul the weather indicators point to 22 degrees below, but at Chicago it is 20 degrees warmer. At North Platte, Neb., the mercury stands 10 degrees below and at Indianapolis and St. Louis 2 degrees. These are the coldest portions of the country.

At New Orleans and points of Texas the thermometers register freezing points and at

At New Orleans and points of Texas the thermometers register freezing point, and at Jacksonville the same. In Boston it is 20 degrees and in Philadelphia 16 degrees.

The greatest velocity of the wind was forty-eight miles an hour. At 7 o'clock this morning it was blowing at the rate of forty-two miles. Storm signals are displayed all along the Atlantic coast from Jacksonville, Fla., to Eastrort Me.

the Atlantic coast from Jacksonville, Fig., to Eastport, Me.

The wind is still blowing off shore, preventing incoming vessels from making port. There are a large number of ships outside the harbor, waiting for the wind to go down. Only one steamship's arrival was announced yesterday. There is snow in the lake regions and storms are raging on the Pacific coast.

Indications are that the weather will be colder to-night. The wind will go down and the thermometer registers will follow suit. It is not safe to predict for a certainty that the weather will be any warmer to-morrow, and indeed the chances are against such a change.

The storm was very severe on Long Island.
The wind was south and blew a gale. A large tree in Main street, Huntington, blew down last night, breeking down telegraph wires and catching W. Spantowitch, a barbar, who was passing, knocking him over and bruising him about the head and back. He is not thought to be seriously injured.

The heavy wind on the bay to-day caused a great detention to the boats of the Rapid Transit Railroad Company.

JUDGE RAPALLO'S SUCCESSOR.

An Appointment Expected from Gov. Hill on Monday Before the Senate Has a Say.

If Gov. Hill should decide upon a succesnor to the late Judge Charles A. Rapallo, of the Court of Appeals, before next Tuesday, the Court of Appeals, before next Tuesday, he can make the appointment without the Senate having a voice in the selection. If he should not decide upon a choice until after the Legislature is organized, the nomination will have to be confirmed by the Senate.

As the Senate has a Republican majority and as many of the Republican Senators are strong partisans and bitter enemies of Gov. Hill, it is thought likely that the Governor will make the appointment next Monday.

No candidates for the high judicial office have been mentioned yet.

Thomas Barry Will Go to Prison Rather Than Pay an Unjust Fine. [SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.]

EAST SAGINAW, Mich., Dec. 29.-Thomas B. Barry, member of the General Executive Board of the Knights of Labor, was a leader in the strike of 1885, and his leadership of the strikers in the journey to the several mills on the river to call the men out was made the ground for an action against him, which resulted in a judgment now hanging made the ground for an action against him, which resulted in a judgment now hanging over him.

On July 11, 1885, several hundred men went from mill to mill to induce men still at work to join the strike for ten hours.

At the planing-mill of the Hoyt estate, of which Wm. L. Webber is the Michigan trustee, Barry halted the men at some distance from the place, and he and several others held a conference with the employees.

This lasted too long for the waiting crowd, and they invaded the premises, drew the fire and shut down the mill.

This was one of the counts in the information, against Barry in the criminal prosecution which resulted in acquittal, but later Mr. Webber instituted civil proceedings against the leaders of the strike, which as was generally believed, merely indicated the intention of learning how far the rights of property-owners extended in the control of their premises against unwelcome visitors.

The Circuit Court returned a verdict of $299.18 against the defendants in favor of Webber, but the case of Barry was taken to the Supreme Court, which affirmed the decision of the lower court, holding that Mr. Barry, because of his acknowledged leadership, became responsible for the action of his followers whether done by his consent or against his protest.

Nothing further was heard of the case until the present week, when Mr. Barry was notified by Webber's attorneys that himself and co-defendants must pay the judgment—about $400—or submit to the process of a body execution.

Mr. Barry says: "I still labor honestly

Wenderful Surgical Operation Performed or a P. E. I. Young Man. [SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.]

HALIPAX, Dec. 29 .- A wonderful surgical operation has been performed at Elksdale. P. E. I., by Dr. Devale. The patient, a young man, was suddenly seized last May with severe pains in the stomach. The complaint did not seem like neuralgia, and certainly it was not inflammation. The patient also ex-perienced creeping, crawling sensations in the stomach. Alternating with the pains there were violent convulsions. Altogether the case was a most violent one. It was pitt-ful to behold the terrible sufferings of the patient.

The doctor did not at first understand it The doctor did not at first understand it, but after carefully considering the symptoms he said: "There is a living animal in that man's stomach, and I will take it out."

Accordingly on the first of July he proceeded to operate. He had diagnosed the animal to be located in the right plearic extremity of the stomach. An inclusion was made across the epigrastum. The stomach being contracted was overlapped by the liver. Accordingly the latter first presented itself. The liver was drawn up and carefully stitched to the under surface of the abdominal wall. Then the stomach was drawn up to the edge of the incision and neatly stitched there.

inal wall. Then the stomach was drawn up to the edge of the incision and neatly stitched there.

After a few days, to allow the stomach to form a connection to its new locality, he opened the organ.

Then a most remarkable sight was presented. A snake fully 12 inches long lay coiled up in the suspected locality.

Having observed light through the stomach wall it was ready for action. As soon as the opening in the stomach was made it sprang at the hand or the operator. Missing its aim, it changed its tactics. The attempt was made to escape by dashing through the pyleric orifice; but in this it was foiled, for the gallant operator seized it by the tail and drew it back.

Having cluded the grasp of the forceps, an attempt was made to escape into the cosophagus. Its passage there was not interrupted.

Finally it emerged through the mouth, and the patient was thus relieved of his torment, and has completely recovered.

cursing a white boy, Bob Camp, when a white man interfered and knocked the negro down. This led to a general clash among about three hundred whites and blacks who were on the streets. Men were knocked down, beaten and stabbed indiscriminately. Five men were carried to their homes on stretchers. They are Robert Smith, Eli Johnson, A. H. Robenson, William Neal and Clarence Holmes. Smith will die.

Yesterday a peddler reached Carrollton and introduced himself as white, though he was somewhat dark-complexioned. To-day it was discovered that he was a negro. The whites caught him and were about to lynch him, when other counsel prevailed, and he was given two minutes in which to run out of gunshot reach. He ran as if in a running match. The negroes took this up and have been making threatening demonstrations all day. This evening about fifty young white men organized and routed the blacks. There is some fear that the blacks may return to-night.

AS FEROCIOUS AS A TIGER.

VINCENT VOILET STABBED BY AN INFURI-ATED BOSTON HUSBAND.

ordan W. Richey Returned Home Earlier than Usual, Found His Chamber Door Locked, Burst It Open and Discovered that His Suspicions of His Wife's Infidelity Were Justified-The Pair Terrified.

BOSTON, Dec. 29.-Jordan W. Richey, of 80 Austin street, was brought into Station 15 shortly after 1 o'clock, this morning, on what may eventually result in a charge of murder. Richey was excited, and, in answer to the uestions of the Lieutenant in charge, tried questions of the Lieutenant in charge, tried to explain the reason for his stabbing Vincent Voilet nearly to death.

He had been suspicious of late that Voilet was altogether too intimate with his (Richey's) wife, and so when he went home at an early hour this morning, and found the door of his wife's chamber barred to him, he became violent and forced an admittance. He found his suspicious there and then justified. Both Mrs. Richey and her paramour were almost beside themselves with terror. The enraged husband held in his hand a large jacknife. He jumped upon the intruder in jacknife. He jumped upon the intruder in his wife's chamber with the ferocity of a tiger.

The wife, thoroughy terrified and unable to restrain her husband, leaped from the bed and in her night dress went screaming through the house crying to her neighbors for help.

through the house crying to her neighbors for help.

During her search for assistance a terrible scene was enacted in the chamber. The guilty Vollet seemed petrified with fear and offered apparently but little resistance to the infuriated husband. He made an effort to get out of the door, but Richey had him in clutches hard and fast. Up and down went the avenger's knife as he drove it into his victim's body.

The first stroke drove the blade into the man's neck. Then Violet struggled desperately to break away from his assailant, but to no avail. Three other thrusts were given, all of these in the man's back before Richey pushed him away, and he sank bleeding on the floor.

The cries of the wife and the neighbors were responded to by the Sergeants and the patrolman, and none too soon did they come, for Richey held by his rage was then, so one of the fear-stricken neighbors said, bent on wreaking vengeance on his guilty wife.

Richey, all bespattered with blood, went to the station with the officers. The wounded man was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital, where his wounds were examined. The attending physician was unable to state how serious they would prove to be. He thought that one of the knife thrusts in the back had penetrated one of the injured man's laugs. If this proves true there is but little hope of his recovery.

DETECTIVES CALL ON KRUMM.

The Concert-Hall Man Says He is Perse cuted Because He Accused the Police. "I am persecuted by the police because I don't want anything to do with them." So spoke Charles Krumm, of 167 Chrystie street, to a World reporter to-day. Krumm is the man who made a charge of extortion against Capt. Anthony J. Allaire, of the Eldridge street station, and more recently accused Policeman Selig, of Capt. Allaire's command, of the same offense. The Police Commissioners dismissed one accusation and Judge Gildersleeve the other.

Krumm was in an angry mood as he told the reporter his story.

"My wife is upstairs sick in bed," he said, "and for that reason she failed to appear at Police Headquarters against Policeman Selig. She will appear when she is able.

"Last Sunday a week ago," continued. Folice Headquarters against Policeman Selig. She will appear when she is able.

"Last Sunday a week ago," continued Krumm, "two detectives from headquarters visited my concert hall. They endeavored to persuade my waiters to furnish them with wine, and when they couldn't get that they called for beer. They only could get weiss beer, and they left the place in disgust.

"Half an hour afterwards another detective entered the place. He drank a glass of Weiss beer and watched for over two hours to try and get a case against me.

"Finding he couldn't, he approached the waiter, who brought him the weiss beer and said: 'What was that you gave me?' 'Weiss beer,' said the waiter. 'No. it tasted like beer,' replied the detective. 'You're my prisoner.'

"When I protested, the detective said: 'I was told to come in here to make an arrest to-night, and I must do it.' The waiter was taken to Jefferson Market and held for trial."

TRICKED BY HIS WIFE.

Mr. Sanders's Paternal Affection Cost H

John H. Brown and a woman whose name was given as Nellie Jackson, were accused in Jefferson Market Police Court to-day of obtaining propery by trick and device from Ignatz Banders, an old man, living at 445 West Twenty-sixth street.

All three are colored. Mr. Sanders said that Nellie told him that his son had been arrested, and sent her to get money to get him out. He did not believe her, but Nellie referred him to Brown for corroboration of her story, and Brown assured him that it was true.

Nellie $14 worth of clothing to use as collateral in negotiating a loan at a pawnbroker's.

A little later Sander's son came home and indigmantly denied having been arrested or authorizing Nellie to act as his financial agent.

Under Justice Duffy's cross-examination
the fact was elicited that Nellie is Sanders's wife, and that she took the clothing to her home. That ended the case and both prisoners were honorably discharged.

Turner bethought him of a 22-calibre rifle in his office and running to get it asked to be allowed a "whack" at the prize. He drew up the rifle, and says that the first thing he knew it went off.

Grosch called out "Joe," and fell to the floor, while young Turner ran to the Chambers Street Hospital for an ambulance.

Grosch was shot in his right side, and little hope was expressed of his recovery by the hospital physicians.

Young Turner was found by a World reporter at 9.45 o'clock dusting the furniture in Becker Bros.' office. He was much distressed and did not hesitate to give his version of the story, which was as follows:

"Grosch came out into the hall with a rat in a trap and showed it to me. I said, 'Hold on. Gimme a whack at him,' and ran in and got this rifle," indicating a heavy target gun of 22-calibre.

"I rushed back with the gun and hauled it up to shoot at the rat when it went off before I knew it.

"I hope he ain't burt very bad," was the trembling conclusion of the lad.
Coronor Levy took the ante-mortem statement of Grosch at the hospital this afternoon.

Grosch said that he was sixteen years of age and resided with his aunt at 311 East Sixth street. His father is dead and his mother in Germany.

He and Turner have for five or six weeks been in the habit of shooting at a mark with Mr. Becker's rific, and this morning they had fired several shots at a target, when the gun was accidentally discharged while Turner was loading it, and Grosch was wounded. "He run for a doctor as soon as I was shot," said the little sufferer. "I know it was an accident because me and him's good friends, and I hope he won't get into trouble over it." GOV, HILL WILL SPEAK.

INTERNATIONAL BANKING CO. Fulton St., cer. Breadway, N. Y. City. ESTABLISHED IN 1874. CANADA'S NEW STEAMSHIP LINE.

Proposition to Establish Direct Trad with Europe Via Quebec. [SPECIAL TO THE WORLD. MONTREAL, Dec. 29,-W. H. Anderson, o

Anderson & Co. and of Greene & Co., man agers of the Orient line of steamships, who is at present in Canada in connection with tenders for the carriage of mails, was interviewed to-day in relation to their scheme for a new line of steamers, which, if carried out, will materially diminish the Canadian trade at present carried via New York.

The service proposed is a weekly one, conducted by steamers of 7,000 tons gross register, length 525 feet over all, 54 feet breadth, 13,000 horse-power. It is also estimated that the capacity of these ships for cargo would be greater than the whole first-class freight from Canada, as shown by published statistics.

be greater than the whole first-class freight from Canada, as shown by published statistics.

The only difficulty in the way is the draught of twenty-seven feet, which at present is too much for the St. Lawrence Channel.

When asked if the advantages of the proposed line would attract American trade he replied that he thought it certainly would, as passengers by this line could be landed in Chicago as soon as direct passengers in New York. Such service in connection with the proposed Pacific Ocean line will attract a large Eastern and China trade. By means of the New Sault line passengers landed at Quebec or Halifax will arrive in Duluth or St. Paul within a few hours of the time they are now landed in New York.

"Has the Central Pacific Railroad any interest in this line?"

"None in particular, except what effect it will have on freight and traffic in common with all Canadian railways. It is an acknowledged fact that trade between Europe and America can be carried on more expeditionally by the Canadian route, especially to the Western States, and with this scheme the greater part of this American trade will be diverted to Canada."

CONSUMPTION

and all diseases of the THROAT, HEART AND LUNGS red by DR. R. E. TOWNSEND, 399 Lexi DR. TOWNSEND'S new inhalation method of treatment is admitted to be a great improvement on the old method and insures a speedy and permanent cure in airmost every case. By his treatment the diseased parts are resched directly and in the most effective manner. Complete and perfect cures are effected in many cases of consumption which have been given up as hopelessly beyond the reach of medical skill.

Positive cures are made in the most obstinate cases of ATARRH, ASTHMA, BRONCHIAL TROUBLES and affections of the HEART, after a careful examination, which is the most thorough that consummate skill and the latest medical appliances will permit. A candid opinion is expressed in every case, and no case in which success is not assured with a reasonable degree of certainty will be taken, but the Doctor believes that the greater the cure the greates the credit, and he prefers cases pronounced hopeless by others, and feels certain that his new and scientific treatment will show beneficial result as a one and a cure in a short time.
